

*The Health and Medicine Policy Research Group,
Center for Long-Term Care Reform cordially invites you to a panel discussion:*

Targeting and Supporting High Risk Elders in the Community

Friday, May 18, 2007

9:00 a.m.—12:00 p.m.

Room 932

University of Illinois at Chicago

School of Public Health

1603 W. Taylor Street

Chicago, Illinois 60612

Continental Breakfast 8:30 a.m.

Featured Panelists:

Karen Gricus, COO/RN, Chicago REACH

Barbara Rabyne, Director of Community Services, Council for Jewish Elderly

Marsha J. Johnson, Director of Case Coordination Units, Community Care Systems, Inc.

Thomas Cornwell, MD, FAAFP, HomeCare Physicians

Physical impairments? Cognitive limitations? Environmental hazards? Complex medical needs? What defines a “high risk client”? How do/can we meet the needs of such clients in the community? How are different organizations addressing this issue? How do/will we enable elders with frailty and complex needs to age well in the community?

Join us for a panel discussion of these questions and more as we consider strategies for and barriers to identifying and sustaining older adults with higher levels of risk and service need in the community.

Please RSVP to Marianne at mbrennan@hmprg.org or 312.372.4292.

*✿Made possible by the generous support of the Retirement Research Foundation,
Public Welfare Foundation, and The Chicago Community Trust✿*

Health and Medicine Policy Research Group

The Center for Long-Term Care Reform